On the 8th day of December, one of the girls' dormitory buildings at the Caswell Training School was destroyed by fire, and on the 5th day of January another dormitory building at the school used by the girls was also destroyed by fire. About one hundred girls occupied these two dormitories. Fortunately none of them were injured.

The girls are now sleeping in halls and dining-rooms, and have to be kept under constant care. The necessity for erecting dormitories to take the place of those destroyed is immediate and imperative. It will take seventy-five thousand dollars to erect these buildings, and I earnestly urge the General Assembly to make a special appropriation for these purposes at once.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

The following message is received from the Senate:

Senate Chamber,
January 22, 1919.

Mr. Speaker: It is ordered that a message be sent to the House of Representatives, informing that honorable body that the Senate has adopted the enclosed resolution relating to the death of Professor Marvin Hendrix Stacy, and incorporated the same in its Journal. It transmits the same to your honorable body, requesting similar action, and when your honorable body has disposed of same, requests that you transmit it to the Secretary of State in order that a copy may be transmitted to the family of the deceased as requested in said resolution.

Respectfully,
R. O. Self, Principal Clerk.

RESOLUTION RELATING TO THE DEATH OF PROFESSOR MARVIN HENDRIX STACY

The General Assembly of North Carolina, having heard with profound regret of the death of Professor Marvin Hendrix Stacy, professor of Civil Engineering and Chairman of the Faculty of the University of North Carolina who died at his home in Chapel Hill, on Tuesday, January 21, 1919, is desirous of expressing its sense of loss which the University and State have thereby sustained.

A graduate of the University and for sixteen years a member of its faculty, Professor Stacy had risen from the position of Instructor in Mathematics to that of Professor of Civil Engineering and dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and had fulfilled the several trusts which had been committed to him with such efficiency and fidelity to duty as to win the complete confidence of students, faculty and trustees. Upon the death of the late President Edward Kidder Graham he was at once placed in charge of the administration of the affairs of the University as Chairman of the Faculty, which position at the time of his death he was filling with great ability and promise.

Therefore be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring,

That in the death of Professor Stacy the University and the State have lost a public servant, whose career marked him as a teacher endowed with high powers of inspiration, as a counselor of sound judgment, and as a man of high and lofty ideals of service and broad, liberal sympathies.

Resolved, further, that these resolutions be spread upon the journals of the Senate and the House of Representatives as a testimonal of the high esteem in which the people of North Carolina held Professor Stacy as a man and their confidence in him as an educational leader.

Resolved, third, that the Secretary of State have a copy of these resolutions transmitted to the family of the deceased.

The Resolution requires that the same be spread on the Journal and is as follows:

S. R. 356, H. R. 419, joint resolution in regard to the death of Dr. Kemp Plummer Battle.

The General Assembly of North Carolina, having heard with great sorrow of the death of Dr. Kemp Plummer Battle, Professor Emeritus of History and former President of the University of North Carolina, who died at his home in Chapel Hill on the fourth day of February, 1919, is desirous of expressing its sense of loss which is thus brought to the University and to the State.

Whereas, for almost three-quarters of a century the life of our State has been enriched by the example of his unselfish devotion to duty as educator, statesman, and public official, and

Whereas, after the blighting effects of the Civil War, the State University was reopened and revitalized largely through his efforts, and under his leadership as president the foundations were laid for growth and expansion to its present large and useful place in the life of our people, and

Whereas, as teacher, author, and public speaker, Dr. Battle has rendered invaluable service in the promotion of historical research and the preservation of the historical records of our State, and as a citizen he has exemplified the highest ideals of a cultured gentleman, and has, in all of his relations with his fellow-man, displayed the true type of a Christian:

Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring:

That in the death of Dr. Battle the University and the State of North Carolina have lost a public servant whose career marked him as a teacher with a genius for inspiring his students, as an adviser of sound judgment, as a friend of sympathetic nature and of wide and splendid ideals of public service, whose long and useful life has been devoted unselfishly to the promotion of education, moral uplift, and all things that are helpful in the betterment of our people; whose life has been an inspiration to the younger generations that have come under his influence, and whose career should forever be a shining example to those who shall come hereafter.

Resolved further, that this resolution be spread upon the Journal of the Senate and the House of Representatives as a testimony of the high esteem in which the people of North Carolina held Dr. Battle as a man and their confidence in him as a public servant, and their admiration of his splendid life's work

Be it further resolved, that a Committee consisting of three members of the Senate, to be named by the President of the Senate, and five members of the House of Representatives, to be named by the Speaker, be appointed to attend the funeral of Dr. Battle.

Under the Resolution the Speaker appoints on the Committee: Messrs. Winborne, Powell, McMullan, May, and Williams of Cabarrus.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The House meets pursuant to recess, with Mr. Speaker Brummitt presiding.

On motion of Mr. Mintz it is ordered that a message be sent to the Senate inviting that honorable body to come into the hall of the House in joint assembly for the purpose of hearing an address by His Excellency Governor Bickett.

The Sergeant-at-Arms announces the approach of the Senate, and that body preceded by its officers comes into the Hall and are assigned seats.

The Sergeant-at-Arms announces His Excellency, Governor Bickett, who is escorted to the barr of the House and delivers his address as follows:

Gentlemen of the General Assembly: If the General Assembly were not in session, and some stranger should appear in any county in North Carolina and say, "I see that your county has no good road connecting it with the surrounding counties. This is a serious disadvantage to the people of your county, and if you would like to link up with the outside world and become a part of the system of roads that would connect you with every other county in North Carolina, I will put up three-fourths of the cost of such road or roads, if you will put up one-fourth."

I am satisfied that the attitude of any county in North Carolina to such a proposition would be the same as the attitude of Zeb Vance on a certain occasion. The story runs that while Vance was a member of the General Assembly some member arose one day and said that there was a man in Raleigh who proposed to build the Western North Carolina railroad from Old Fort to Asheville. Vance immediately rose from his seat and exclaimed: "Mr. Speaker, I move that we do now adjourn and go out and catch that man."

It is passing strange that because this identical proposition is made by the State instead of an individual there is a disposition on the part of some members from counties who would reap the largest benefits to reject the proposition because the offer is not made to put up all the money instead of three-fourths. This attitude is not unlike that of the pauper who was being carried to the poor house. A kind-hearted stranger said to the driver of the wagon, "Why are you carrying this man to the poor house?" Said the driver, "Because he is so poor that he has not got a bushel of corn." Said the stranger, "I will give him a bushel of corn." The pauper looked up and inquired, "Is it shelled?" "No," said the stranger, "it is in the ear." Said the pauper, "Drive on."

God Almighty will not help a man who refuses to make a reasonable effort to help himself, and if there be a county in North Carolina so dead to the desirability of a good road that will link it up with the balance of the State as to be unwilling to pay one-fourth of the cost of such road, then that county ought to be recommended to the kindly ministrations of some foreign missionary board.

Gentlemen, I know North Carolina, I have been in every county in it, and I speak as one having authority when I say there is not a county in all our borders, not one that will refuse such an offer if the country really needs the road. If it does not need it, then it would fall outside the scope and purpose of this legislation. I know North Carolina so well that I am willing to absolutely guarantee that under the Mull-McCoin bill there will at once be claims for more money than any highway commission can wisely and economically expend within the next two years. We cannot afford to waste money even though we raise one-half of it through taxes paid to the Federal Government.

North Carolina is in no financial condition to build a statewide system of roads costing from twenty to forty thousand dollars a mile. We do not need such a system, and what we do not need is costly at any price. We need a State system that will link up every county with roads that are reasonably good. The first duty of the State is to provide a fairly satisfactory road service to all of the people, and when this has been done we can consider the building of high priced roads. I am unwilling to endorse any system that will enable a small fraction of our people to glide over concrete or asphalt, while the ninety and nine flounder in mud. There may be here and there a section where there is such a congestion of wealth and population and such a density of traffic as to justify these high priced, hard surface roads, but there are not enough of them to be seriously considered in framing a state-wide policy.

If the selection of the commissioners shall be left to the Governor I want the General Assembly to understand that I shall take pains to select men in sympathy with these views. I deem it fair to you to say this much to the end that if you are not in sympathy with these views you may lodge the appointive power elsewhere.

I also desire to say that I hope the Governor will not be made a member of any commission that may be created. I know nothing about practical road building, and the members of the commission should be men who can get right down to brass tacks and see to it that the State gets in labor and material one hundred cents in value for every dollar expended. I deem it proper to add that if you shall see fit to clothe the Governor with the responsibility of appointing the members of the Commission, I shall not feel under any sort of obligation to name any member of the present Commission. I shall conscientiously endeavor to find the men who are best qualified to discharge the duties of the office, and the fact that a man is on the present commission will not militate either in favor of or against his appointment. I say this much to the end that if the General Assembly does not endorse this attitude the appointive power may be lodged elsewhere.

The Mull-McCoin Bill, is, in my judgment, just and fair in itself, and it eliminates any necessity for a bond issue, I am emphatically and eternally opposed to a bond issue and for several reasons:

1. It is not a supreme necessity, and only such a necessity could justify such a course. The proponents of the bond policy themselves confess that it is not intended to be permanent. Gentlemen, North Carolina cannot afford to make a four million dollar experiment. If the bond plan is to be permanent, it will pile up a State debt that we cannot afford to carry. If it is not to be a permanent plan, then a great injustice will have been done those sections of the State that have not been reached when the plan shall be abandoned.

2. Again, no member of this body was sent here on a platform proposition to pile up the bonded indebtedness of this State to many times its present total. The folks at home are entitled to be heard before we can embark upon such a policy. Representing no particular county, thinking of no particular locality, but earnestly desiring to serve the State in its entirety, I file a solemn protest against the issuance of these bonds. Some member said to me the other day that it looked like somebody would have to be held responsible for the present road situation, I do not for one moment shirk from the responsibility that rests upon me in the premises. I assume entire responsibility for the refusal of the General Assembly to burden the State with a four million dollar bond issue to build these roads. I assume entire responsibility for a refusal to embark upon such a policy until the people can be heard from. But, gentlemen, if you refuse to pass any law that does not carry a bond issue, then you assume responsibility for such a course.

It is freely admitted that anything we do will be in the nature of an experiment. Defects in any law that we may adopt will doubtless appear. Mistakes in its administration will doubtless be made. We are entering an untried field, and I beg you, gentlemen, to adopt a policy that will render our mistakes as inexpensive as possible. Let's not make a four million dollar mistake in the very beginning.

The General Assembly has already made a record for constructive work of a high order. It has proceeded along progressive lines, but it has proceeded with sanity and with safety. It has not been stampeded on any measure, and I earnestly beg you to round out this record with a reasonable road law suited to the financial condition of the State, guarded from waste and extravagance, and bottomed on the principle, defensible in any form of justice and common sense, that from him to whom is given, something shall be required.

On motion of Mr. Bryant the House now goes into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering the pending measures, the public road bills.

On motion of Mr. Matthews of Bertie, the Committee of the Whole rises, and the House is called to order.
